
Florida League of Cities develops Strategic Partnership for online auctions of its member's surplus equipment.

Orlando, FL – January 15, 2002. The Florida League of Cities is pleased to announce a Strategic Partnership with GovDeals to provide its members an opportunity to purchase and sell their surplus equipment utilizing the enormous global reach of the Internet. This unique, state-of-the-art, online auction service allows League members to conduct online transactions of surplus, abandoned and confiscated equipment and property. With GovDeals (www.govdeals.com), not only can members list their properties for sale immediately as they are declared surplus, but they are exposed to a much, much larger group of registered Buyers interested in government surplus.

“We have reviewed the results provided to other GovDeals clients and believe that this service will be a major benefit to our members – as both sellers and buyers. Our smaller members will benefit greatly from this highly efficient service since they can quickly review automated listings of available assets for purchase close to home quickly and efficiently. We are absolutely certain that our members can achieve the same or better results as other governments are experiencing with this state-of-the-art service”, stated Mike Sittig, Executive Director for the League.

“We look forward to our Partnership with the Florida League of Cities to provide each member with increased values and maximum convenience for disposal of their surplus items. We can accomplish this by offering items to a wider audience of existing, active and growing list of Buyers. This will maximize revenues for taxpayers, while offering a convenient opportunity for more Buyers to participate”, stated Roger L. Allen, GovDeals Chairman and CEO.

“We believe that the added benefits of not having to transport items, not having to warehouse items while being able to utilize the asset management functions incorporated in the GovDeals system provides our members enormous value immediately. Buyers can review items offered for sale at their convenience on the GovDeals Web-site (www.govdeals.com) without having to be bothered with weather problems and schedule conflicts. Overall, we feel that this will provide our members with immediate Buyers as well as the ability to compete with other governments - both domestically and internationally”, added Frank Hagy, Chief Information Officer for the League. “We will work with GovDeals to assist our members in selling their items quickly and professionally”, he continued.
